

OHIO NOW GOES TO THE POLLS FOR MAJOR DECISIONS

PLANS LAID FOR RELIEF DRIVE HERE

Red Cross Roll Call Is to Cover All Phases of Help for Needy

DATE SET FOR NOV. 15

Administration of Fund Also Centralized

Ward captains and their precinct aides of Washington C. H. met at the Y. M. C. A. Monday evening to receive instructions for completing the Annual Red Cross Roll Call campaign this year. Previous to this on Monday afternoon a well attended meeting of township captains and their helpers, outside of this city, was held.

There was an enthusiastic interest displayed by the organization workers assembled in the plans for this year because of the fact that it has been decided to combine all the relief work of Fayette county for a whole year in one campaign for funds. The fact that the entire relief and unemployment problems for this community this winter is to be handled through one agency, the Red Cross, has met with general approval according to expressions of those gathered at this meeting.

The drive for funds will take place on Sunday, November 15. The minimum amount required for Fayette county to meet all anticipated needs is $5,350.

Of every subscription to the Red Cross of $1.00 or more, a total of only 50 cents goes to the National Red Cross for its nation-wide relief program.

This means that if a subscription of $5.00 is made by any person $4.50 remains here for relief in this community. Each subscription of $1.00 or more entitles the donor to an annual Red Cross membership.

The demands for help this year because of so many families being without regular work for months is expected to exceed all requirements of the past. For this reason the people of Fayette county are being

CHILDREN KILLED BY YOUNG MOTHER

DESPONDENT OVER FAILURE OF HUSBAND AND FATHER TO GET WORK BLAMED

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Nathan, 21, shot and killed her three small children and then committed suicide in the kitchen of her home today. Police said she was despondent over inability of her husband to find employment.

The children were Charles, Jr., five; Herbert, four; and Eva, two. Their father had left home two hours before the shooting to continue his search for work.

To make certain of their deaths Mrs. Nathan had stuffed clothes and paper in the cracks of windows and turned on the gas in the range. The house was filled with gas when a policeman broke in the front door. He had been summoned by a neighbor who heard shots.

One bullet had been fired into the head of each child at close range.

$200,000 IN JEWELS STOLEN FROM BROKER

Chicago, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Joseph C. Newman, New York diamond broker, reported to police today that he had been kidnaped in the downtown district by two men, driven to the outskirts of the city and robbed of $200,000 worth of jewelry and released.

Newman reported the theft to the detective bureau. He said the two men apparently followed him as he left his hotel. They accosted him at Congress and South Wabash avenue, just south of the Loop, and forced him to drive to the south side. He had intended calling on customers, Newman said.

WISE HERO, (U. S. JUDGE), TELLS OGRE, (UNCLE SAM) TO RETURN SEIZED LIQUOR

Photos show federal agents returning liquor to Goodhue's cellar.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 3.—(AP)—This is the story of the Old Ogre (who is Uncle Sam) who came and took the Convivial Gentleman's (Mr. George S. Goodhue's) good liquors from his Baltimore cellar, and of the Wise Hero (Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut) who admonished the Ogre and made him take the good liquors back to the Convivial Gentleman's Baltimore cellar.

HUNTER'S LICENSE TAKEN OUT BY MAN WHO WANTS MARRIAGE LICENSE

One of life's most embarrassing moments came to Henry Short, 41, of Circleville, Tuesday morning. He obtained a hunter's license, signed and paid for, while seeking a marriage license to wed Halle Stone, 26, of Madison Mills.

Discovering his error and of the opinion that a hunter's and trapper's license probably would not look very flattering to his bride-to-be, Short, very much embarrassed, was directed below to the Probate Judge's office, where he obtained the license to wed and departed to look for a minister.

Short walked into the clerk's office and, addressing Deputy Mrs. Lela C. Hays, said:

"You can write me out a license, if you want to."

"Hunters' license?" inquired Mrs. Hays and Short said yes.

Mrs. Hays gave him a copy of the hunters and trappers law, which he scanned while answering the questions necessary to fill out the license. He gave his age as 41 years, occupation as laborer, residence as Circleville R. 7, height 5 feet 7 inches, weight 150 pounds, color of hair, black and color of eyes, brown. Short signed the license and paid the $1.25 for it.

Scanning it he said:

"I thought the girl's name had to be on this, too."

It was then that Short's error was apparent, and there was a general laugh in which he joined, as his money was returned and he was directed below. The bride-to-be had waited outside while Short was in the clerk's office.

Taking a look at the hunter's license a short time later, County Recorder Cockerill saw that with a few changes he could use the hunters' license that Short had signed, so the changes were made and Hunter's License No. 99,361 became the property of County Recorder Cockerill, who affixed his name where the signature of Short had been.

S. Fayette-St. Store Held Up And Robbed On Tuesday Morning

Amateur Sleuths Figure Bandits from Toledo After Checking Up on Description of Car

Three men, their faces concealed by handkerchiefs, held up Ernest Arbogast at his grocery in South Fayette street next to Sunnyside school building, at 7:19 Tuesday morning, and after obtaining about $25 in change and small bills, ransacking the place in search of additional money and threatening Arbogast with death, beat a hurried retreat up Oak toward Main St. in making their escape, presumably by automobile.

Arbogast was busy placing his change in the cash register when a man stepped into the store and asked for a bottle of milk.

As Arbogast started for the refrigerator in the rear corner of the store, he noticed that he was being followed, and when he was in the act of obtaining the milk a gun was shoved against his back with the command "stick 'em up!"

GRAIN PRICE ADVANCE MAKES FARMER RICHER

Prosperity, However, Is Only Synthetic Figured on Stocks on Ohio Farms

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Recent advances in wheat, corn and oats on the Chicago Board of Trade has increased the value of Ohio farmers' holdings $18,000,000, Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of The Ohio Farm Bureau Corporation said today.

Lincoln said his estimate was based on the figures of the U. S. crop reporting service on the amount of grains held on Ohio farms. He said the major increase was in corn holdings. Lincoln said Ohio farmers are holding part of last year's crop and this year's production estimated to total 159,000,000 bushels and that at an advance of six cents a bushel the profit to the farmers amounted to $9,540,000.

Ohio growers have stored 23,500,000 bushels of wheat and at the price increase of 20 cents a bushel it is worth $4,700,000 more than a month ago. The unsold crop amounting to 49,400,000 bushels estimated on the four cents a bushel increase shows a profit of $1,976,000.

Aimee's Mother Proves a "Flop" In Vaudeville

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy Hudson, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, retired from the stage today after a week's appearance in a vaudeville skit here with her husband, Guy Edward Hudson. Mrs. Kennedy-Hudson said the four-day schedule was impairing her health. The theater management, however, said the act had not been the drawing card they expected it to be.

Hudson said he would continue on the stage in another act.

PLAYFUL BRITISH PRESIDENT OFFICER GRABBED FROM SEAT JUST AS THOUGH IT WAS A SURPRISE

London, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Rt. Hon. Edward Alagon, Fitzroy, pretending to conceal himself on a back bench in the house of commons today, was plucked from his hiding place and hustled forward over his own make-believe protests to the seat of the presiding officer.

That is the way they elect a speaker of the house in England. Mr. Fitzroy had the job last year and now he has it again.

LOCAL AND STATE ISSUES DRAWS FAIRLY HEAVY VOTE

Vote in Washington C. H. for Mayor Is Problem for Prognosticators

WATCH THESE RESULTS OF ELECTIONS

Local financial issues and elective contests: The $150,000 bond issue proposal for a sanitary sewer system and the one mill levy for the city schools head the list of local financial issues. Rural school districts, too, are asking for more funds for various reasons.

The offices of Mayor, president of council, and township trustees are to be filled. New members are to be chosen for both city and county school boards.

A test of political strength of the American Legion and farm organizations will be made in the "Welfare Bond" issue vote.

Five congressional contests: Especially that in the first Ohio district (Cincinnati) and the eighth Michigan, both of which long have been Republican. In the first Ohio, Nicholas Longworth's old seat, John B. Hollister, (R), opposes David Lorbach, (D). In the eighth Michigan, long the seat of Representative Fordney, whose name was given to a tariff bill, Foss O. Eldred, (R) opposes Michael J. Hart, (D).

Twentieth Ohio (Cleveland; normally Democratic): D. Hayden Parry, (R) vs. Martin L. Sweeney, (D).

Seventh New York (normally Democratic): William L. Padgett, (R) vs. Joseph Delaney, (D).

Second Pennsylvania (Philadelphia; normally Republican): Edward L. Stokes, (R) vs. Charles S. Hill, (D).

Present standing of the house: Democrats 215; Republicans 213; Farmer-Labor 1. Seven vacancies. Five will be filled today, one from New Jersey Dec. 1, and one from New Hampshire, Jan. 5.

Contests for Governor in New Jersey and Kentucky: Democrats in each state have argued that victory will rebuke President Hoover.

In New Jersey, A. Harry Moore, (D) formerly Governor, is opposed by David Baird, (R), formerly United States Senator.

In Kentucky, Mayor William B. Harrison, of Louisville, (R) is running against County Judge Ruby Laffoon, (D). Counting of the vote will not begin until tomorrow at 10 a. m.

Mike Conner, (D), will be elected Governor of Mississippi.

Vote in New York state on reforestation. Proposed amendment to the state constitution has been opposed by Alford E. Smith and favored by Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Tammany. It would devote $19,000,000 in 11 years for the purchase by the state of abandoned lands to be reforested and would permit cutting of trees in state forest reserve, now forbidden. Smith has attacked it as economically unjustified and as opening the way for "lumber thieves."

SERIES OF QUAKES SPREAD TERROR THROUGH JAPAN

Nagasaki, Japan, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Tensions of Kiushiu Island again today causing consternation among a populace already frightened by yesterday's tremors, which were the worst experienced in thirty years. The shocks were regarded as after effects of yesterday's and did little or no damage. They spread terror, however, because Kiushiu island seldom experiences seismic disturbances.

REWARD FOR BODY

Chillicothe, O., (AP)—Mrs. Floyd H. Pontius, Hillsville, today offered a reward of $300 to the person who would recover the body of her husband who disappeared last Oct. 13, leaving a note saying he drowned himself in Buckeye Lake.

Two persons were shot, one probably fatally in a gun fight today on the steps of City Hall, between Assistant Police Chief Eugene T. Weatherly and Charles Milner, 26, a negro.

Milner suffered wounds in the lung and left arm and was in critical condition. The officer shot him three times after the negro had shot his wife in the right hip.

Milner's wounded wife ran to City Hall, a short distance from her home for protection and Weatherly fired at Milner when the latter refused to drop his revolver.

Fifteen years ago Weatherly shot an Akron robber to death here and later killed a negro who attempted to slay him.

Twenty men and women saw the shooting as they were going to work.

TWO MEN RESCUED ADRIFF ON OCEAN AND NEAR DEATH

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A coast guard cutter 60 miles at sea reported by wireless today that it had rescued two men who had been tossed for nine days in a disabled motor boat, starving and depending only on occasional rain-drops for drink.

On October 25, David Warhausser and Irving Puchner, brothers-in-law, left their Brooklyn homes to tinker with their 17 foot outboard motorboat the engine of which had not been functioning properly. They failed to return and after days of search by coast guard and marine police their families gave them up for dead.

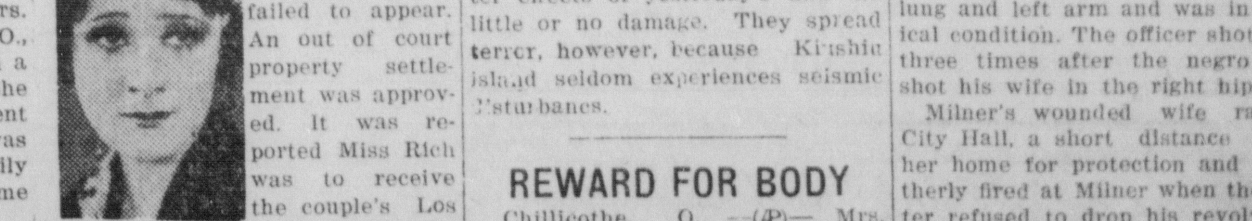

The cutter Cuyahogah reported today that it had taken the men aboard 60 miles off Fire Island light, exhausted and in need of immediate medical attention.

Irene Rich Weeps As Divorce From Husband Granted

San Francisco, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Weeping and near collapse, Irene Rich, motion picture actress, obtained a divorce here yesterday from David Blankenhorn, wealthy broker, on a cross complaint in which she charged cruelty.

Blankenhorn failed to appear. An out of court property settlement was approved. It was reported Miss Rich was to receive the couple's Los Angeles home and motor car and a $100,000 insurance policy.

Miss Rich, 39, is the mother of two children. She married Blankenhorn four years ago at Monterey, Calif.

MOTHER IS SOUGHT

Pittsburgh, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Leona Galloway, 28, of Marion, O., today asked police here to aid in a search for her mother, who she said she never saw. A letter sent by Mrs. Galloway said she was adopted by a Cleveland family when a baby and made her home with them for 23 years.

Since her marriage she has tried unsuccessfully to locate her mother, Mrs. Mary McDonald, 53, and believes she may be living with a son, William McDonald, last heard from in Pittsburgh, she said.

This morning officers found 14 of the ballots strewn along a road.

Ballots Stolen in Virginia Town

Honaker, Va., Nov. 3.—(AP)—One hundred and ten ballots, mailed in advance of today's election here, were taken from Norman Yates, registrar for Honaker precinct, last night by two masked men.

Yates told officers the two men entered his home and pointed pistols at him with instructions to hand over all mailed ballots. He did so and the men fled.

This morning officers found 14 of the ballots strewn along a road.

OPERETTA TICKETS PLACED ON SALE

Tickets for the operetta, "The Count and the Co-ed," are now on sale at Rodecker's Book Store.

The scene of the production is laid at Marden College in the middle west where "Snooze" Andrews, played by Charles Sheppard, who is a cheerful youth with a sad tendency for getting into scrapes and thus displeasing Dr. McSpadden (Paul Jones) goes to college. "Snooze" is in love with Dolly, the president's daughter. He is anxious to gain her father's good will, who is already worried over the necessity of raising the college endowment fund.

On the day of the story "Snooze" has an encounter with a traffic officer because he has made a hurried trip to the city to get a costume he has rented. In the evening while a program is taking place, "Snooze" disguises himself in the costume in his efforts to hide away from the traffic officer and is mistaken for the distinguished guest of the evening, Count Von Weimerheister, a wealthy foreigner who is a well known benefactor of colleges.

In view of the fact that the traffic officer is present it makes it impossible for "Snooze" to reveal his identity. He explains to Dolly, however, and she over-joys her parents by being charming to the supposed Count.

During the program "Snooze" keeps his head despite the confusion and eager interest taken in him by Miss Agatha Lockstep (Rosemary Burgett), house mother of the girls' dormitory.

He finally confesses his identity. At the climax a registered letter is brought to Dr. McSpadden from the real Count. Here matters become complicated. Finally Snooze confessed his identity.

NEW INTEREST IN THE P. T. A.

One particular feature in P. T. A. work has been the real interest displayed in the various units. A large number of parents are taking part this year.

There is more desire to fulfill the work and mission of the Parent Teachers' Association, and to take up problems in P. T. A. work for discussion.

At the convention in Dayton Mrs. Clarence Craig obtained many splendid ideas which she has passed on to the local units where it is proving valuable.

There is also a more concentrated effort to work together on problems, and to be interested in each other's work. The City Council of the P. T. A. which has already met is stressing this idea.

Other council meetings are planned soon, at which time problems of local units will be discussed.

In these meetings instruction and help will be given to representatives, all of which should result in a much stronger P. T. A. program.

MOTHERS VISIT IN THE CITY SCHOOLS

Mothers of the children in the schools are taking a renewed interest in the activities of their children and are making it a point to visit the schools frequently.

An increased interest in the welfare of the children, the method of teaching, and in the teachers is being shown. One primary teacher states that often from one to a large number of visitors are present during the day. On Wednesday at Cherry Hill and Central a number of mothers were visiting and while there the proposed one mile levy was explained to them and discussed.

All parents seemed greatly interested in this discussion, and the consensus of opinion was that all parents and friends would support the proposition.

NEW ARITHMETICS ARE MUCH ENJOYED

The school children of the city schools are enjoying a new arithmetic book. Nothing in late years has done so much to create an interest in a subject as this change in books.

The new material has caused pupils and teachers to take a greater interest in their work and the value of their work can not be overestimated.

The material in the new books is of the highest type in that it deals with problems of the child's every day life, based on his experiences. They are problems which deal with his interests and activities as they shall come to him in the future. These books are entirely different from the old text books dealing with situations and problems the pupil would never meet.

These books are filled with the finest type of drill work and testing material.

The initial results are indeed gratifying and it is confidently expected that the results at the end of the year will have conclusively proven that the benefits derived by the pupils as a whole far outweigh what small cost may have been involved in the change.

DEBATE QUESTION

The question for debate this year has been received and is stated as follows: Resolved, that the several states should enact legislation providing for compulsory unemployment insurance.

This question was debated at one of the sectional meetings of the Central Ohio Teachers' Association at Dayton, Friday, by the negative and affirmative teams of Ohio Wesleyan University.

The Ohio Wesleyan team uses the Oregon Plan Debate, which is two debaters on each team.

Ada Kathryn Anders, Ruth Nisley, Paul Jones, and Bert Shimp, members of the high school debate teams, went to Dayton Friday to hear this debate.

SOPHOMORE'S ROAST

The big event of the week for the Sophomore class was the pig roast held Wednesday evening at Baker's cottage.

The main item on the menu was the roast pig, it being the prize "captured" by this class in the greased pig race between the Freshmen and Sophomores staged at the Washington-Chillicothe football game last Friday.

The entire class, together with the high school faculty, enjoyed the picnic supper served around an out-of-door fire.

SUNNYSIDE NEWS

A festive event for the primary grades of the Sunnyside school was the Halloween party given by the children of Miss Agnes Kerrigan's first grade on Thursday afternoon at which they entertained the children of the second grade and their teacher, Mrs. Mary Katherine Hixon. The affair was of educational import to the first graders as it was their first experience in a group of social celebration. Their preparations were in keeping with the magnitude of the undertaking.

The invitation to the second grade was a matter of group composition in which each of the forty-nine beginners participated. When it was properly criticized and revised it was written on the blackboard by the teacher and it was proudly delivered the letter. The answer of acceptance was equally significant and it served as a reading lesson in which there was breathless interest. Art work for the occasion embodied weird faces, quaint cats, owls and witches.

The second graders were ushered into an auditorium lighted by blinking Jack O'Lanterns which beamed upon groups of bubbling youngsters. Love's cats were given as souvenir grotesque features. Half-dramatization of reading lessons furnished hilarious entertainment to which spice was added by the false faces. Refreshment was assured by a bushel of red apples.

Miss Geraldine Craig's fifth grade of the Sunnyside school presented the chapel exercises on October 29, which consisted of the following program: Salute to the Flag, The Lord's Prayer, the Twenty-third Psalm, Poem, "October's Bright Blue Weather", Claire Richardson, "Why We Have Halloween", Grace Marine; poem, "Trees", Phyllis Pittenger; song, "Halloween".

Other pupils taking part were: Barbara Fite, Robert Mayer, Marquerite Kelley, Robert Sanderson, Billie Sprenger, Scott Tillett, Herbert Eckle, Maynard Shastene, Emma Rowe, Leonard Orr, Doris Tillis, Robert Brown, David Seymour, Eileen Dennison, Orville Whaley, Dale Merritt, Richard Ramsay, Percy Barger, Martha Ervin, Annabelle Lee, Mary Williams, Thelma Brown, Carrie Beth Anderson, Floyd Jones, Shirley Sprague, Paye McCann, Harriet Wilson, Janice Redden, Lloyd Sprague, Robert Eckle, Naomi Payne, Lawrence Payne, Edward Shaffer, Geraldine Williams, Stanley Freeland.

Interest in the weekly spelling matches held by the seventh grades of the Sunnyside school is steadily increasing. On October 23, the pupils standing at the close of the contest were: Section 1: Patricia Osborn, Linda Paxson, Barbara Sprenger, Esther Fullwiler, Virginia Clay, Esther DeWeese, Frances Steed, Mildred Reser, Audrey Jackson, Betty Johnson, Etta Anders, James Landrum, Russell Combs, Richard Ferneau, Richard McCoy, Harold Kneisley, Thomas Harper and Charles Mustine.

EAST SIDE ASSEMBLY

The second grade at Eastside taught by Miss Fern Hammerstein presented the first assembly program of the year on Friday.

One group gave a nature study on migration of birds and the falling of the leaves in autumn and the other a dramatized Halloween story, together with recitations on October and Halloween.

THE HONOR ROLLS IN HIGH SCHOOL

The honor roll for high school students indicates that the honors are equally divided among the classes since each class of the four years has two students with all A grades: Seniors, Ruth Nisley and Henry Katz, juniors, Alice Ferneau and John Leland, sophomores, Margaret Blessing and Jean Inskeep, freshmen, Alan Fite and Jane Ferneau.

WEEK'S ACTIVITIES AT CENTRAL SCHOOL

A special called meeting of the Central P. T. A. was held Wed. 3 P. M. Supt. St. Clair very ably explained the need of the passing of the one mill levy. A special invitation to the parents to observe regular school work was given. A large number responded and thoroughly enjoyed the work of the pupils and the festive appearance of the rooms.

Thursday afternoon all the rooms participated in the annual halloween parade. There were many unusual and clever costumes.

Thursday morning Central school held a chapel program in the high school auditorium. The first and fourth grade teachers, Miss Butterfield and Miss Palmer, were in charge of the program. Madalene Baker gave a Bible reading and Miss Butterfield's room a "Prayer Song". Readings were given by Katherine Ferdinand, Franklin Ashley and Susanne Willis. Music included groups and a piano solo by Sara Jane Foster.

THE DEBATE TEAMS HAVE BEEN CHOSEN

The debate teams for this year have been divided into their respective speaking positions.

The affirmative team is composed of Ruth Nisley, captain; first speakers, Janet Junk, Robert Minshall, George Sheets, Orville Vince, second speakers, Ruth Nisley and Carl Mallow; third speakers, Bert Shimp and Tony McEvoy.

The negative team consists of Paul Jones, captain; first speakers, Ada K. Anders, Henry Pearce, Paul Horne; second speakers, Cloyd Richardson, Ralph Samson, George Robinson; third speakers, Paul Jones, Hester Conover, Harold Hazard.

The best speakers from each group will be chosen to make up the final teams.

JR. HI-Y CLUB

The date of the induction service for the new members of the Junior Hi-Y club has been changed to November 2.

The many activities this week caused a conflict so Hi-Y plans were changed.

MURDER OR SUICIDE?

WEALTHY MANUFACTURER IS FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN WRECKED CAR

Mauston, Wis., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Whether Philip A. Koehring, 55, wealthy Milwaukee manufacturer, was slain or committed suicide Saturday, puzzled investigators.

Evidence supporting either cause has been found, officials said, since his body with a bullet in the head, was found in Koehring's large coupe which had crashed through a fence and rolled about 300 feet off the highway into a field east of here.

While relatives and business associates of Koehring told authorities he apparently had no cause for worry, the Sheriff and Prosecutor said a check of his movements indicated he had been restless and dejected recently.

The belief that Koehring suffered a skull fracture from a blow delivered prior to his being shot originally gave impetus to the search for a supposed slayer. Doctors later amplified their statement regarding the finding of the fracture, and said an examination of the scalp revealed no bruise.

Across Koehring's lap when the body was found lay a small caliber rifle which was identified as his property. An empty shell in the chamber, indicated it was the weapon used to inflict the fatal wound, the bullet having entered behind the right ear, penetrating the brain, and ending its course in the bone behind the left ear.

The position of the body, seated upright behind the wheel, and the fact the rifle was apparently carefully placed upon the dead man's lap, were factors advanced by authorities to substantiate the theory Koehring was slain. Footprints and a pearl-handled knife, slightly rusted, were found in an adjoining woods, indicating someone recently passed near there.

Animals, Not Women!

CLYDE BEATTY CAN TAME HIS JUNGLE CATS BUT NOT WIFE

Peru, Ind., (AP)—Clyde Beatty, 27, an animal trainer for a circus, has been able to get along pretty well with thirty-two lions and tigers, but apparently not so well with his wife.

The former Miss Ernestine Page of Peru, sued him for divorce two years ago, but subsequently dropped the suit. This fall she sued again. Gov. the decree has been granted.

Beatty, who handles 32 lions and tigers, was once attacked by a tiger in Kokomo, Ind., but was saved by a large lion.

He is a native of Bainbridge, Ohio.

CHILD'S FUNERAL

Funeral services for LeRoy Wilson, Jr., two years old son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Wilson, were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock, at the A. M. E. church, conducted by Rev. Mason, assisted by Rev. Allen and Rev. Day. The choir sang "Precious Jewels" and "Looking This Way". Interment was made in the Washington cemetery.

PORTSMOUTH JUDGE NOW GOES ON TRIAL

Portsmouth, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A sequel to the case of Mrs. Margaret Clark Tidd, former municipal court clerk convicted of embezzlement, began Monday with calling of the trial of former municipal Judge William K. Sprague.

Sprague is charged with aiding and abetting Mrs. Tidd, who will be the state's chief witness. Sprague's arrest resulted from charges made by Mrs. Tidd during her trial that he was responsible for the alleged irregularities.

Sprague resigned from the bench immediately after Mrs. Tidd's charges. Another witness against Sprague will be Cecil B. Tidd, an attorney, and husband of Mrs. Tidd.

Disposition of Mrs. Tidd's case has been continued pending the outcome of her request for a new trial.

RACE TO HOSPITAL PROVES UNAVAILING

LITTLE GIRL DIES AFTER ALL MODERN SCIENTIFIC AID POSSIBLE GIVEN HER

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—(AP)—A 30-hour race from Orlando, Fla., to Philadelphia—all the speed of a fast train, and airplane—police cars clearing the way for ambulances in two cities—skill of surgeons with the most modern medical instruments were of no avail in saving the life of a three-year-old girl.

Margery Cohen was rushed here Sunday by her father, J. R. Cohen of Orlando to remove a bean from her bronchial tube. All the way she lay gasping in her father's arms. At Orlando, physicians said there was but one chance to save her life. A faint hope lay in reaching Philadelphia to obtain use of the bronchoscope. The father and his dying baby speeded by train to Washington; police motorcycles escorted an ambulance from the station to the airport; a plane cut train time from Washington to Camden in half; motorcycles cleared the way to a Philadelphia hospital.

Surgeons removed the bean after almost two hours. Pneumonia, however, had already developed and three hours later the child died.

DEFICIT OF $661,750,523 IS PILED UP BY GOVERNMENT AFTER FIRST FOUR MONTHS OF YEAR

Slump in Returns from Income Tax Blamed for Much of It

Washington, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The government completed the first four months of the current fiscal year with a deficit of $661,750,523. From July 1 to October 31, government income from all sources amounted to $793,629,673. Expenditures were $1,364,750,523.

A year ago the government piled up a deficit of $171,514,528 in the first four months and finished the fiscal year with a deficit of $903,000,000.

The chief cause of the decrease in come tax this year was the drop of $243,000,000 in income tax collections.

That tax has returned $239,121,623 this year as compared with $582,262,864.

Miscellaneous internal revenue producing only $189,661,371 as compared with $206,409,195.

General expenditures showed increase of more than $200,000,000, amounting to $963,732,174 as against $763,764,220.

The farm board has spent $56,383,447 in the one-third year as compared with $24,665,848.

The postal deficiency also has increased, jumping from $40,091,582 to $65,900,000.

Customs receipts, which increased in July, August and September, fell off in October with a total of $35,175,422 as compared with $39,319,247 in October 1931. In the four months, however, customs receipts this year were $143,395,371 as against $134,251,676.

Officials would not discuss the fast growing deficit. Experts have been searching for new sources of revenue and Secretary Mellon will submit his annual recommendations to President Hoover in the next ten days.

The secretary has not decided whether he will recommend revision of the tax system but he has said he would lay before Congress full details of the government's financial situation.

A selective sales tax has been considered by the treasury, but a decision is yet to be made.

In addition to the daily expense of operating the government and carrying on an expanded building and public works program, the government must prepare for funding $8,000,000,000 in Liberty Loan bonds callable next year and the year after and must meet nearly $1,000,000,000 of maturing securities in December and nearly an equal amount next March.

The gross public debt which reflected the $903,000,000 deficit of last year, increased more than $1,000,000,000 in the last year. On October 31, 1932, it was $16,179,837,396. Last Saturday it totalled $17,291,714,018.

JACOB L. JAMISON FUNERAL SERVICES

Rev. J. Stanley Mitchell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, conducted the funeral services for Jacob L. Jamison, held Monday afternoon at two o'clock, at the Klever Funeral Home. The services were largely attended by relatives and friends, including a great many from New Holleng and vicinity, former home of Mr. Jamison.

Rev. Mitchell, in closing his eulogy on the life of Mr. Jamison, read the hymn "Abide With Me." Rev. Mitchell spoke of the long and useful life of Mr. Jamison, and his success as a stock buyer and farmer.

The floral pieces, of great number and variety, were very beautiful.

Interment was made in the Washington cemetery, the pallbearers being: Ben Jamison, J. W. Jamison, Harry Pavey, C. L. Pavey, Loren Connor and Thomas Connor.

PLANS ARE LAID FOR RELIEF DRIVE HERE

urged to give more liberally than ever before.

It was explained to the rural workers in the afternoon that money was greatly desired in this Red Cross roll call, but where it was found that money could not be given donations of wheat, corn, apples, chickens, hogs or cattle would be accepted. Trucks will be sent to gather up such donations and the produce, poultry or live stock donated will be brought to this city and such disposition will be made of it to secure best results in relief work.

HOW DRIVE WILL BE MADE.

An enumeration of Washington C. H. has been completed by high school students under direction of Major Rell G. Allen. This information gives the name of every family in the city with all its members and its exact location. These names will be transferred to a card system and a Red Cross representative will be appointed for every business and residential square in the city, who will solicit funds for this Red Cross campaign and also act for the Red Cross in matters pertaining to future relief work during the coming year. This plan carried out under direction of ward captains and precinct aides will so divide up the Red Cross roll call drive this year that no one person will be required to see more than six to ten families.

The campaign has been planned for Sunday afternoon, November 15 so that every residence may be visited between the hours of one and three o'clock. People are being asked to wait for the solicitor at that time or if expecting to be absent, to make arrangements for subscription in advance with the Red Cross headquarters here.

It has been suggested that a conservative method of arriving at the amount to be given in this campaign is one average day's income during the year.

S. FAYETTE-ST. STORE HELD UP AND ROBBED ON TUESDAY MORNING

the purse back of some goods, and although the men overturned hamper of beans, sugar, candy and other goods in which the purse might have been hidden, and threatened Arbogast with death if he did not tell where they could find more money, he refused to reveal the hiding place. After a search about the place for some five to eight minutes, they hurried from the store, ran up to Oak street and across the street noted that the trio had come from the store.

Apparently they had the handkerchief loosely tied about their necks, and at the proper time raised the handkerchiefs so that most of face was covered, lowering the handkerchiefs as they left the store so as not to attract attention. The first man did not have his face covered when he entered the store, but pulled the covering up about his face as he followed Arbogast to the rear of the store.

A pistol which Arbogast kept near the money drawer was also stolen by the trio.

Within a few hours after the robbery, Chief Wolfe learned that a Millys Knight sedan, blue with bright stripe, and bearing a Toledo license, the number of which was furnished to him, had been in Jeffersonville for quite a while Monday afternoon and that four men, who answered the general description of those who robbed the store here, had made injury there as to the number of police in the town, and about one or two of the stores. The quartet's actions were so suspicious that the number of their car was obtained, and other information, which was turned over to the police here after it was learned that the gang here had used a blue sedan.

Chief of Police Wolfe issued instructions to all surrounding cities to pick up the car and hold the occupants. After making a vain effort to summon the police and receiving no response by telephone, he went across the street and had the telephone used until the police were reached.

Worrying About—BLOOD PRESSURE?

At the first sign of danger, take a laxative. Cut down on alcohol, coffee and tobacco. Eat lightly for several days. Take a tablespoonful of mentha pepsin before meals to make digestion as easy as possible. Keep quiet until your stomach is settled and the dizzy spells have passed.

Have your physician check your blood pressure at frequent intervals. Continue to protect yourself by taking mentha pepsin before every meal. (You can get Dare's Mentha Pepsin from Finley's Corner Drug Store or any other reliable druggist.) Avoid heavy food and too heavy meals—especially at night.

Do this faithfully and the chances are that you will prevent—or at least postpone—the danger of a stroke.—Adv.

As soon as possible the police threw out a dragnet and detained every person who could not give a good account of themselves, taking them to the Arbogast grocery to ascertain if they could be identified before releasing any of them.

Police later found that a blue sedan with a fourth man at the wheel, had been parked in Oak street, and that when the three men reached the car after the robbery, it headed into Main street.

Two of the men were described as being of good size, and the third was much smaller than the other two. Outside of stating that one of them wore a light brown overcoat, Arbogast was unable to give any general description of the trio.

The same tactics have been used by holdup men in some of the surrounding cities, the stickup men appearing very early in the morning and invariably making their escape while the police force is at a minimum and there are no customers about the stores.

Three mighty good reasons!

"MILDER"—smoke as many as you like! That's what every Chesterfield smoker knows...and it's not hard to prove, either. Just try this blend of milder, riper tobaccos!

"TASTE BETTER"—you'll like as many as you smoke! That's what more smokers are learning every day. Not over-sweetened, but just sweet enough for constant enjoyment. The mild, rich flavor of the finest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos.

"THEY SATISFY"—in every way! The tobacco, the paper, the package...everything about Chesterfield is the best that money can buy or that science knows about!

Male More Suicidal

The male of the human species is more deadly than the female in the matter of self-destruction, according to a statistical bulletin. If you are a man you are many times more liable to end your life by your own hand than a woman is to take the same rash liberties with her own vital spark, if that is anything to cheer you up.

Between the ages of fifteen and nineteen female suicides are more than two and a half times as many as those among males, but beyond that age man's grudge against himself is increasingly fatal and he carries the lead to the bitter end. After the age of sixty-five about seven times as many men as women make the sorry finish that proves them to be cowards.

There is honor for women in these figures. They are shown to be of firmer courage at every age except the years in which they are most impressionable. No reasons for the taking of their own lives by either men or women are given but the figures give bases for guesses. One can envisage the young girl being prompted by a blasted love romance, lack of employment or shame. As she passes the dividing line between extreme youth and maturity she enters the period wherein she possibly is happily married, satisfactorily employed or has acquired the judgment that steers her away from possible causes of self-destruction or deters her from the deed even in the face of what might have prompted her to act differently at an earlier age.

Upward!

Economists who have been saying that business would be definitely on the upturn for several months before the new trend was recognized by the public have based this prediction on history.

Indications are that the upward trend has set in in many lines, which in turn will pass increased prosperity on to other businesses and industries. So quietly has the face-about been made, however, that many persons are not yet conscious of the betterment.

Bank failures decrease shows a more healthy condition of the financial institutions which are the nerve center of all commercial and industrial activities. A continued diminution in bank closings will be a powerful factor in the restoration of confidence.

Industrial operations in many lines are showing gains in employment and output for the first time in two years. This is a trend that is bound to gain in momentum. Stocks of manufacturers of all kinds are at the lowest level in fifteen years or longer and will not long remain at this abnormal ebb.

Readjustment and liquidation is nearing completion. International bankers have about completed setting their pegs.

Obstacles

The director of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce who says that hit and run motorists should be fired on by officers who may be present at the scene of accidents and these officers should shoot to kill seems to assume that officers are likely to be present, which in most cases would do violence to fact.

That the hit and run driver would receive not more than his just deserts were he shot and killed might be true, but in order to stop the practice some effective means of bringing such offenders to book other than relying on an officer being present and accurate in his aim needs be devised. A driver who would run after hitting usually is of the class likely to be circumspect when the presence of an officer, but not averse to trampling on the rights of others if he feels that he has a chance to get away with it.

It is a difficult matter to trace the perpetrator of a hit and run crime. The offender has at his command the means of getting away speedily. Unless someone witnesses the accident and secures the number of the car the chances of detection are slight. Yet there is more likelihood of capturing the cowardly driver in this way than in the chance that an officer will be present.

TALKING ALICE AS CANDIDATE FOR VICE PRES.

Feminist issue Raised by Suggesting Late Speaker's Wife as Successor to Curtis

By CHARLES P. STEWART.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Congressman William Williamson of South Dakota does not pretend to know exactly how many seconds he has received to his recent nomination of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth as the G. O. P.'s vice presidential candidate in 1932, should Charles Curtis decide against seeking another term, but he says the number certainly runs into four figures.

Ever since he made the suggestion the Dakotan's telephone has been ringing almost constantly, bringing him congratulations on it. Many more endorsements of it have reached him by mail and a few by telegraph.

"Well," recalls the congressman, "South Dakota, at its 1920 Republican convention, was the first state to propose Calvin Coolidge for the vice presidency. Whether or not that signifies anything as to Mrs. Longworth in 1932 is a question concerning which I leave politicians to draw their own conclusions."

What the late speaker's widow would think of the idea is another problem which as yet no one appears to be in a position to answer.

Accounts from Cincinnati agree that she very readily could have been named for the first Ohio congressional district's seat in the House of Representatives following her husband's death, but would not even consider accepting the candidacy. Her name likewise has been mentioned in connection with next year's nomination in opposition to Senator Robert J. Bulkley, but with very little thought that she really can be persuaded to make the run.

However, there are hopeful folk in the capital who surmise that the vice presidency, if offered, might be a sufficient prize to tempt her.

For the enlightenment of those to whom it may seem that Mrs. Longworth herself should be the best authority to consult on the subject, it perhaps is necessary to explain that royalty is accessible in comparison with her.

Speaker Longworth was the most approachable of individuals; his wife one of the least so.

Undoubtedly a brilliant politician, her influence always has been exercised from behind the scenes. With her husband's death, many persons did, indeed, venture the guess that her interest in public events would bring her more into the limelight, but thus far there has been no indication of it.

It is true, nevertheless, that for several years women prominently identified with Washington politics have been predicting their sex's ultimate approach to the White House.

Poetry For Today

MAKING A FIRE
Scatter a few cold cinders into the grate;
On these lay paper puffed into airy balloon,
Then kindling wood, parched by the suns of summer, drowsy and sweet;
Then coal. A flare; a flame; and a fire will be burning soon—
Antler-tongued and impetuous,
But unless you pay heed,
It will fall, fade and grow heatless and ash away out.
So is it with anger in heart and in brain; the insensate seed
Of fiery enkindling leaps into horror and rout;
But remaining untended, it dies,
And the soul within
Is refreshed by the dew of sweet amity, compassion's cool rain.
Not so with the flames Hell has kindled for unassailed sin,
As soon as God's mercy would quench them, Love, weeping, lights them again.
—Walter De La Mare, in the New Statesman and Nation.

House by way of the vice presidency.

As Congressman Williamson says:

"Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, while running for the senate, frequently was referred to as sure to Mrs. Alice Longworth become a serious vice presidential possibility if senatorially successful. Had she been elected, this prospect, in all likelihood, would have been a formidable candidate."

Still, that a woman in second place on a national ticket necessarily would strengthen the combination the South Dakotan does not consider a foregone conclusion.

"It has been shown again and again," he says, "that there is no distinctly feminist vote.

"I believe it is the general sentiment, among women as well as men, that it is doubtful if women have had the franchise long enough to have developed the background and experience for presidential responsibilities.

"A woman as vice president would not face such responsibilities, to be sure, but there remains the possibility that at any time the vice president will be elevated to the presidency, and while men quite frequently have been named for the former office without thought of their qualifications for the latter, it is a consideration which inevitably would be strongly emphasized in the event of a woman's vice presidential candidacy."

"Yes," nodded the congressman, "it is a fact of course, that women have occupied, and most efficiently occupied, positions at the head of great governments.

"Still, it is to be borne in mind that not in at least a century has the woman occupant of any throne wielded an authority equal to the president's.

"There have been great queens in the past, undeniably. Queen Elizabeth, for example. Yet it must be admitted that her personality was an outstanding one as a monarch, king or queen, in all history.

"Even now, as to a woman for the vice presidency, or the presidency, I agree, it should depend on the woman."

High Spots In Ohio History

BY J. H. GALBRAITH

One of Daniel Decatur Emmett's treasured clippings was a newspaper story of an incident at Washington just after the fall of Richmond. President Lincoln went to Richmond soon after the old Confederate capital fell into the possession of the Union army, and on his return to the White House a crowd of loyal Washington city people secured a band and marched to the White House to tender congratulations and to serenade the President. Several members of the cabinet were present, and, of course, the President spoke briefly.

At the conclusion of his remarks he said: "I see you have a band with you. I should like to hear it play Dixie. I have consulted the Attorney General who is here by my side, and he is of the opinion that Dixie now belongs to us. Now, play it."

This simple statement Emmett seemed to regard as an official declaration that Dixie was again what its writer intended it to be, a song for America and not for a section of it, certainly not of the South.

To understand how this would appeal to Emmett it is necessary to understand that it had been seized upon by the Confederacy as a war song and used as such all through the years of the Civil war, in spite of the fact that no idea it would be so used was in the writer's mind when he produced it.

Emmett, like his father, was an abolitionist, and to be accused of aiding the South, repeatedly during the long course of the war, because this unwarranted use had been made of his song, was naturally irritating. He therefore welcomed a declaration that Dixie, with other things that the Confederacy had seized during the war, had come back to the whole people with the triumphs of the Northern arms.

NEW YORKER AT LARGE

By WILLIAM GAINES

NEW YORK—One does over-hear amusing things in some of the late places.

For example, at a ritzy rendezvous a group about one of the tables reached the point of amplifying voices so that none about might miss the tongue-twisted conversation.

The gentlemen of the party were waxing erudite. They were tossing off words a yard long, distorted so that still later comers must have thought, at times, they were a trio of foreigners.

At last one used a word in describing an absent "pal" that made him stop and wonder—"syncopant."

"Sync — syncopant — syncopant — let's see," he says, "just what is your understanding of that word?"

"Does it come from syncopation?" inquired a delightful brunet in all her deadly ambitious sincerity.

Well, maybe it does, at that.

SOLDIERS OF MISFORTUNE

Some day soon we'll tell you more about them, these "soldiers of misfortune."

A gentleman whose desk is with in two hops and a leap of mine has just received a diploma making him an honorary member of the Association of Veterans of the French Foreign Legion.

He tells me that there are 400 such vets hereabouts and that the association maintains in New York a museum of relics of all the Americans killed in the French legion service.

Also that the association keeps up a self-help fund to see that none of their members suffers when out of a job or when he grows too seedy to get a new one.

ODDITIES AND ENDINGS

Marilyn Miller, so her movie company announces, will visit New York soon. But Marilyn, so New York understands, won't be in a hurry to get back to the west coast. She got over so much bigger on the stage here.

M. McC., Indianapolis: You must have made a big hit with your letter. Daname Rasch informs me that, in your case, she thinks she could produce a ballet dancer in about six months. Yet you haven't had any experience?

J. D. Emporia, Kansas: It may delight or disappoint you (if you're a professional old timer, you may be disappointed) to know that they still install huge mirrors in new buildings here. The newest downtown Manhattan theatre boasts that its four lounge mirrors are the largest in the world. I advise you to check up. A new hotel put in some mirrors of a good size too. But maybe when the peacocks were on parade there was more need of big mirrors for preening, eh?

Bill N. Yonkers: Yes, as any denizen of the suburbs should know, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Davis are Lawrence Saunders—a collaboration. I understand that when Davis begins to produce what he considers "literature," he will use his right name. I wasn't wrong, as usual.

SEIZE BIG STILL

Cleveland, (A)—A 1,000 gallon still, spouting a stream of red-tinted denatured alcohol the size of a garden hose, was seized by federal agents here Monday night. It was the largest ever taken in the Cleveland area. Robert Scott, who lived in the building but denied ownership of the still, was arrested and charged with violation of the national prohibition law.

"THAT LITTLE GAME" Too Polite to Live

SO CIALITY PAGE

M IAMI University graduates and former students got together Monday evening for a social affair of informal pleasure and were enthusiastic over the good time the evening provided. Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bitzer extended the hospitality of their home on the Columbus highway for a roast, for which twenty guests assembled. Down a pumpkin lighted lane, the host and hostess placed a roaring big bonfire and a most appetizing supper was cooked over the flames.

After the fairly prolonged supper hour outdoors, the party made up four tables of bridge. Mr. Bitzer is a connoisseur of antiques and their very attractive home is filled with beautiful furniture of early periods, which called forth appreciative admiration.

Mrs. Bitzer was assisted in the Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Mustrale once every hour for five hours.

Children's Mustrale is just good old Mustrale, you have known so long, in milder form.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Mustrale gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Mustrale on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Mustrale for little tots. All druggists.

arrangements by a committee including Mrs. Loren D. Hynes, president of the local Miami Alumni Association, and Miss Marie Schreiner, of Good Hope, secretary. Instead of the formality of a banquet on Miami Day in February, the local organization planned for a pot luck supper on that date. Mr. and Mrs. Bitzer invited the association to return to their home for the supper, to be followed by the radio program and cards. It is expected that the pot luck supper will attract a much larger attendance than the banquets have done in the past few years.

Enjoying the roast were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Sollars, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Junk, Mr. and Mrs. Martin G. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. John Forsythe, Miss Marie Schreiner, Miss Florence Smalley, Mrs. Harold McCoy, Mrs. Lawrence Garlinger, Mrs. Leland Stevens, Miss Helen Riley, Mr. Edgar McPadden, Mr. and Mrs. Loren D. Hynes.

Miss Rowena Marshall delightfully entertained a masquerade and Halloween party at her home.

The house was prettily decorated with black cats, pumpkins and black and orange crepe paper. The black and orange color scheme was also carried out in the serving of delicious refreshments.

Contests, music, games and fortune telling provided entertainment for the young people. Prizes were awarded to Miss Helen Boyer, Harry Hurt, and Edward Hoskins.

Enjoying the affair with the young hostesses were: Misses June Palmer, Helen Boyer, Helen Hurt, Mary Louise Shepard, Mary Louise Palmer, Margaret Shepard, Georgelabel Kimmey, Mary Lou Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Wilson, Edward Hoskins, William Shepard, Harry Hurt, Delbert Kimmey, Charles Palmer, Junior Wilson, Wayne and Graydon Marshall.

The operetta, "The Count and the Cossack", to be presented by the High School at the auditorium Thursday and Friday nights, promises to be one of the most entertaining diversions which have ever been staged at the High School.

The music operetta is of luring harmony and extremely pretty. The plot, centered in a modern college, is one of ludicrous complications, romance and mistaken identity.

The cast is admirably chosen and there is a surprising amount of musical talent is being developed.

The seat sale is now on at Rodeckers Book Store and starting off with a big demand.

Mrs. Frank S. Jackson threw open her home with her accustomed hospitality for the meeting of the M. H. G. class of the First Presbyterian church Monday evening.

There was an attendance of thirty and a meeting of much interest. Mrs. Arthur Finley, President, conducted the business session, which developed various plans for the year's work.

At the urgent request of Mrs. Jackson, the teacher, Mrs. Austin F. Hopkins, gave an informal talk upon her recent stay on the British Isles, touching especially upon Wales, her ancestral home, and showing beautiful pictures, bringing realization of the homes, the country, the bridges, the riot of flowers and other special features of this picturesque island.

After enjoying with Mrs. Hopkins the resume of her trip, a buffet supper was served. A water-garden of marigolds centered the dining room table.

Assisting Mrs. Jackson as the evening's hostesses and promoting the pleasurable social addenda, were Mrs. Emma Kelley, Mrs. M. Z. Klever, Mrs. Blanche Behm, Mrs. Lydia Williams, Mrs. Carol Humphrey, Mrs. Golda McCoy, Mrs. Marie Smith.

The Mission Study Class of the First Presbyterian church held an interesting session, Monday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Lulu H. Robinson. There was an increased attendance and interest in the study book, "God and the Census", is more noted in each session.

Mrs. J. Stanley Mitchell was leader for the afternoon and presented the fifth and sixth chapters of the study book in a most comprehensive manner.

A social hour followed the study hour, Mrs. Robinson serving dainty refreshments.

Twenty-six members of the Light Bearers assembled at the First Presbyterian church Monday afternoon for their regular meeting. Mrs. Ethel Jackson, advisor, Miss Jayne Devins, assistant.

The club is studying China and found much of interest in the study book and stories.

Jean Palmer and Mary Alice Ferdinand were winsome young hostesses and served refreshments much to the girls' liking.

The Margaret Walker Circle of the First Presbyterian church was entertained in regular session at the home of Mrs. Austin F. Hopkins, Monday afternoon. Mrs. Hopkins is the advisor and Mrs. Daniel Howard Davis the assistant, both of them taking part in the meeting.

Miss Rosemary Burgett, president, presided over the business and presented a chapter from one of the two study books. Miss Helen Simons presented the other. The meeting was followed by a very delightful social hour and the serving of a dainty collation.

With the Washington Court House and Xenia stores as guests, the J. C. Penney Company of Springfield entertained a Halloween masquerade party at the store, Monday night. It was a most enjoyable affair with quite elaborate preparations made.

Motoring over from here were Mr. and Mrs. Milton Panzlau, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Marr, Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Mitchell, Miss Dorothy Hall, Mr. Richard Starnus, Mr. Everett Robison.

Miss Minnie Graves entertained the Blue Monday Club in regular session, with Miss Mary Robison, president, conducting the meeting. The business session was followed by cards and the serving of delicious refreshments. Miss Graves was assisted in courtesies by her mother, Mrs. Carl Graves.

IS WINNER IN ESSAY CONTEST

Miss Warren, a senior student in the Roosevelt High School, has been awarded first prize in an essay contest conducted by Buckeye Stages, Inc. Eighteen high school girls from every section of Central Ohio, recently brought to Columbus by the bus company to participate in this year's Gateway Jubilee were asked to write a five hundred word essay describing their visit to the Capital City. Practically all submitted stories. The title of the winning essay was: "Education, Our Greatest Opportunity."

Forest chapter, Order Eastern Star, Bloomington, held its annual election of officers, Monday night, at a special business meeting called for that purpose. Following is the corps chosen for the new year:

Mrs. Hope Toops, Worthy Matron; Miss Geraldine Craig, Associate Matron; Homer Smith, Worthy Patron; Joseph Altemann, Associate Patron; Mrs. Doris Bitzer, Conductress; Mrs. Grace Lightle, Associate Conductress; Mrs. Mae Altemann, secretary; Miss Olive Swope, Treasurer; Willard Bitzer, Trustee.

Mr. Heber Rowe visited Mr. Homer Ruley at Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Roderick came from Jackson for a week end visit with the latter's mother, Mrs. George W. Bayer.

A host of friends are greatly rejoiced to learn that Mrs. Naylor Russell (nee Mary Ramsay) is now showing improvement at the Miami Valley Hospital in Dayton, after a critical condition that caused great anxiety. Mr. Russell visited his wife at the hospital Sunday and Monday.

Mrs. Sada Trump and Miss Fern Doster, of Greenfield, were among the week's shoppers here.

Wallace Fite, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fite, who is in the Great Lakes Naval Training School, has been assigned with a reserve of Navy men to San Pedro, California, and left the first of the week with this detachment for California. Miss Elizabeth Fite is now in Los Angeles, California, a student at the University of California.

Miss Jane Braden came from Miami University for an over Sunday visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Braden, in Good Hope.

Miss Irene Wilson and Miss Nelle Purdy, of Cameron, W. Va., were down from Ohio State University visiting Miss Wilson's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Wilson, over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Buchanan and family motored to Marietta Sunday to visit Mr. Buchanan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Buchanan.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Nevil returned Monday, having spent the past two weeks in Chicago attending the Antiques Exposition.

Jimmie Bill Willis came down from Columbus to visit over the week end with Mr. and A. C. McCoy, of the Leesburg highway.

Mrs. Earl Parker, Mrs. Eugene Bliss and Mrs. J. Paul Strever motored to Columbus, Monday, taking Mrs. Parker's aunt, Miss Grace Hawkins, who returned to her home in Cleveland after a week's visit.

Mrs. Porter Campbell, sons, Mr. Colin C. Campbell and Mr. Joe Campbell, motored to Bainbridge Sunday to be guests of Mr. David D. Walley and family, for a family dinner.

BRILLIANT OPENING MARKS GRAND OPERA IN SEASON OF 1931

New York and Chicago Acclaim Artists in First Appearances

New York, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Grand Opera stole the spotlight from the rest of Broadway last night as the 47th season of the Metropolitan opened with lavish show-off.

More than 4,000 people paid a total of $25,000 to hear a famous American soprano, Rosa Ponselle, sing Verdi's "La Traviata" supported by a cast that included such names as Lauri-Volpi, De Luca, Ananias, Bada, Gandolfi, Miss Genger and Mme. Falso.

The season opened with every index of prosperity—including a subscription reported to total $2,000,000. Many levels of society were represented, from barbers craning their necks in the sixth tier, to Russian Princes and kings of finance in the parterre boxes.

Ponselle, the 129th violetta to die on the old Metropolitan stage, received an ovation. When her last song had ended and she collapsed in the arms of her beloved Alfredo, the house rang with plaudits, and she was called before the curtain more than a dozen times.

CHICAGO SEASON OPENS

Chicago, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Jan Klepura, Polish tenor, was acclaimed by critics and the brilliant audience which attended his American debut last night in Puccini's "La Tosca".

It was the opening of the tenth season of the Chicago Civic Opera Company.

On one side of the footlights was the setting of Puccini's stirring melodramatic opera with a cast which included not only Klepura as Marion Cavaradosi, but Claudia Muzio as Tosca and Vanni-Marcoux as Scarpia.

On the other was a crowded house of music lovers. The gold coast. With a flash of jewels and an array of colorful costumes, filled the boxes. The Ghetto climbed to balcony, but in the outer halls they rubbed elbows in excited, gay democracy.

Klepura was compelled by the audience to take fifteen curtain calls. It was an acclaim compared to that given Amelita Galli-Curci here fifteen years ago.

The critics dealt with his performance as warmly.

Miss Maxine Clarke was down from Columbus spending Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherrell Clarke and son, Richard.

Mrs. Homer Ruley came down from Columbus, where she is staying to be with Mr. Ruley at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Tuesday, for a brief stay at her home, and brought most encouraging word about Mr. Ruley's continued improvement.

Mrs. James F. Wilson and son, Wilbur, visited in Meigs County the last of the week. Dr. Wilson's mother, Mrs. Mary D. Wilson, motoring home with them for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rader, of Scranton, Pa., visited Mr. Rader's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Rader, in West Temple street.

Miss Clara Thurston has returned from a three weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Geiger and Mr. Raymond Geiger and family, in Dayton.

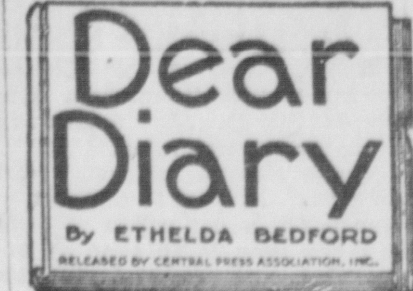

Mrs. Homer Garrett and daughter, Miss Virginia, and Miss Mary Holweiger, of Cincinnati, were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McCoy, of the Leesburg highway. Miss Christina Garrett visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thornton and son DeWitt, for the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Will E. Summers and family and Mrs. E. R. Moses motored to Kenton, Ohio, to be guests at a family dinner entertained by Mr. and Mrs. George Dorn Sunday. Miss Leona Rummel, of Cincinnati, accompanied them home Monday, remaining their guest until Tuesday morning.

Mrs. William P. Craig and son, Malcolm, moved the last of the week from their home in Broadway to Springfield, where the son is connected with the Crowell Publishing Co. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Graves and family are occupying the Craig home.

Martha Van Arsdale came from Columbus for an over Sunday visit with Washington friends.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Cole had as their Sunday guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Johnson, Miss Margaret Kline, Mr. James Passon and Mr. Ronald Wheeler, of Greenville, Ohio.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT.
DEAR DIARY: "You're just what I needed tonight," Paul said. "You mean it?" I asked, perhaps cooly. "Of course I mean it!" "You feel better—now?" "Much better—and you look beautiful." "Oh, thank you, sir!" "No, don't thank me. You are beautiful!"

I used a smile, but didn't feel in the least sure of it. "What's a girl to do . . . I mean, say?"

"You know, sometimes I'm sure you know what you're about—" "And, sometimes . . . ?" "I think you're just a child . . . not having a good time . . . and don't know what anything's about."

"But—" "Oh, I don't know." "You do, too—you were going to tell me . . ."

"I'm not your guardian, darling, but I feel as if I should be when I look at you . . . you're so young, so fresh and—and lovely . . ."

There was a little chunk of a radio there and the waiter turned it on of a sudden. . . . and it played . . .

"Yes, you, you're driving me crazy—"

"What did I do?" "To you?"

"And I began to croon with it. A man was singing the tune over the air."

"It floated over to our table in the corner very clearly."

Paul had not eaten his dinner yet . . . he had been talking to me and I had been wondering there toward the latter part of our conversation whether I was the inspiration for his words or was it the fault of his two drinks.

"What did I do to you, Paul?" I smiled.

"What the radio says . . ."

"Paul!" "I'm glad you've gotten to call me Paul. You say it so softly."

LIVING AND LOVING

BY VIRGINIA LEE

WHAT is a sure fire recipe for forgetting? "Bachelor Girl" wants to know. She has loved a boy long and ardently and he does not respond, so she has made up her mind to put him out of her life. But how? "He'll marry some day," she says, "and I don't know how I'll ever stand it."

Some people have no trouble, apparently, in forgetting. It's the best thing they do. But the finer you are the less easily you can be "off with the old and on with the new," Bachelor Girl.

You say you are a "one-man girl." The one-man dog is a desirable kind of dog if it's a watchdog or will forget entirely, but you you need, but he's apt to bark at, needn't be a blighted being unless if not to bite, an innocent stranger you prefer to.

er as well as a burglar, so he's not likely to be popular with the masses so to speak.

You might marry this young man you have loved for so long, and find that he was not the man of your dreams at all. And whether he is or not, it seems a little foolish to waste your whole life mourning because you cannot have him, doesn't it?

Unless, of course, you think you will get more out of life by adopting the blighted flower attitude than by making up your mind that there are "as good fish in the sea as ever were caught," and by deliberately filling your mind with other interests, going out with other men, taking an active part in all sorts of enterprises and social affairs, trying to round out your life. That is the only way to "forget." Of course you probably nevéable kind of dog if it's a watchdog or will forget entirely, but you you need, but he's apt to bark at, needn't be a blighted being unless if not to bite, an innocent stranger you prefer to.

AUTO INDUSTRY SPEEDS UP WITH NEW MODELS

Business Leaders See in Revival Prospects of Better Times

Detroit, Nov. 3.—(AP)—It long has been a tradition in the automobile industry that it is first to feel the effects of an industrial decline and first to recover. Many of Michigan business leaders believe the motor car industry will lead the way again as it did in the past.

No small part of the feeling that better days are at hand is based upon the impending presentation of new models by a majority of the automobile manufacturers. Many of these new types already are in process of construction while others are to come off the production lines within the next few weeks. The effect of this new model production already has been felt in related industries that supply tools and parts for the various motor car makers. Its effect upon employment will come shortly when all the makers planning new types put them into production.

Preliminary showings of some of the new models disclose why the industry's leaders are depending so confidently upon them to supply the impetus needed to thaw out a frozen motor car market. Apparently everything the industry has been able to develop in engineering improvement has been incorporated in the new cars.

Coupled with the impending appearance of new models, is the fact that the motor industry has cleared its decks in preparation for a vigorous sales campaign. Virtually no surplus stock will be in dealers hands when the new cars are formally presented.

The faith of the Ford Motor Company in the future of the motorcar industry is shown in the expenditure of $500,000 for the installation of additional equipment for the salvaging of worn-out motorcars. The company began reclaiming metal in used cars more than a year ago. New machinery to provide scrap metal essential to the making of steel is being installed that will make it possible to send one old car to the melting pot every minute.

November 7 will soon be here and if there is a report on that date of an armistice between Japan and China it will probably be premature.

'Twas NOT SUICIDE!

CORONER SAYS MAN AT FIRST THOUGHT VICTIM OF OWN HAND WAS SLAIN

Marion, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Coroner Kenneth Smith announced today that Clarence R. Ullsh, 40, who yesterday wounded his wife and his wife's uncle, died of a gunshot wound inflicted in the battle with the uncle instead of a suicide.

The coroner said Ullsh, a prominent Marion county farmer, died of the wound while preparing to hang himself to a rafter in his barn. The bullet lodged in his heart.

After Ullsh shot and wounded his wife he clashed with her uncle, William H. Holverstott, former president of the Citizens' Building and Loan, and in the struggle Holverstott wounded Ullsh fatally, Coroner Smith said.

Ullsh's body was found hanging in the barn about an hour after the shooting. The officials first reported he shot himself while preparing to hang himself. The coroner said, however, that no gun was found near the body.

Coroner Smith said he would return an "open verdict" in the case but was convinced Ullsh died of the gunshot wound.

Oliversott and Mrs. Ullsh were seriously wounded. Officials said they had little hope that Holverstott would survive bullet wounds in the abdomen.

STATE-WIDE ELECTION CLIMAXES HOT FIGHTS

plying funds to keep the schools in operation and numerous county one-mill levies for unemployment relief also were on the ballots. Delinquent tax returns have left many school treasurers without funds to pay teachers. In central Ohio many schools already have been closed for lack of money.

Alleged corruption, extravagance in government and plans to meet the economic situation held the spotlight in several large cities. In Cleveland, Maurice Maschke, Republican National committee, was assailed as a "corrupt boss" by former city manager, William R. Hopkins, who is seeking a council seat. Maschke retaliated by calling Hopkins a "liar" and "menace to public life."

Columbus has a seven-cornered mayoralty contest with "mud" as the chief ammunition. The battle appeared to stand between Jas. J. Thomas, Republican incumbent, and Henry J. Worley, Democratic candidate. The Youngstown mayoralty race was an eight-cornered one and the voters also were asked to pass upon a 3.6 mills levy to pay the school teachers. Three candidates sought the mayor's job in Akron in a campaign of personalities.

Addison Q. Thacker, Lucas county commissioner, promoter of the Dempsey-Willard Fight, and operator of a soup kitchen for the poor, was a candidate for mayor of Toledo. Mayor W. T. Jackson sought reelection. Canton's mayoralty fight centered around charges of graft and corruption in government.

Jacob S. Coxey, 77, of "Coxey's Army" fame, was a candidate for mayor of Massillon on a platform advocating $200,000 non-interest bearing bond issues for unemployment relief.

Judicial contests in Akron, Columbus and Cleveland, developed to free-for-all races as a result of the state Supreme's court's ruling invalidating the Ackerman law. The court held the candidates were not required to designate the incumbent they aspired to succeed as stipulated by the law.

FACTIONAL STRIFE COMPLICATES CHINA

Tokyo, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Chinese factional strife in southern Manchuria complicated the Sino-Japanese controversy today.

Chang Hsueh-Liang, young Chinese war lord and governor of Manchuria, whose palace at Mukden has been taken over by the Japanese, was reported in dispatches to have conquered troops of the independent General Ling Yin-Ching near Panshanhsien.

Previously Nationalist Chinese troops had put down another separatist movement in Manchuria, Chang Hai-Peng, who sought to establish an independent government at Tatsihar, was soundly defeated by troops of the absent governor, Wan Fu-Lin.

Rumors of Russian military activity along the borders of northern Manchuria, persisted, although they have been categorically denied by Moscow. Moscow, however, has asked Japan not to extend its line of military occupation farther north.

NAVY BATTLE AT SHOWDOWN

of the Navy league late yesterday that not until today could the chosen committee lay plans for placing on trial disputed statements by William H. Gardiner, president of the league.

The five men named are Assistant Secretary Jahncke of the Navy; John Hays Hammond, retired mining engineer, and Elliot Wadsworth, of the President's Emergency Relief committee, all of whom were listed as members of the Navy league. The two non-league members are Undersecretary Castle of the State Department and Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired.

Their inquiry, a statement from the White House said, must be "solely into the assertions of fact" made by Gardiner, and not into his "opinions or conclusions."

The League president had accused Mr. Hoover of an "abysmal ignorance of why navies are maintained." The League pamphlet, under his name, contained other blistering statements, too, which could be classed as opinions or conclusions.

Just about the time the President was pondering over his committee, Secretary Adams injected his views into the controversy for the first time.

Adams charged Gardiner with descending "from the high plane of dignified discussion to that of personal attack upon the commander-in-chief of the Navy, the president; a procedure which I deeply resent."

"Without going into details," he said, "I take the liberty of saying the pamphlet is full of misleading statements."

There is considerable speculation as to just how far the five-man court named by the President will go. For one thing, it was directed specifically, to examine the accuracy only of such statements by Gardiner "as may be readily determined from departmental records."

The Navy League leader claimed directly, for instance, that President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald, in 1929 reached agreements that never have "been divulged in their entirety," and that the administration refused to allow an executive session of the Senate Foreign Relations committee to view the full record of negotiations prior to the London naval conference.

These statements have been labeled a "tissue of falsehoods" by Secretary Stimson.

Gardiner hinted also the proposal of Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy, for a one year arms holiday actually was inspired by the Hoover administration.

Still another statement was thrown into the controversy. It was asserted in an authoritative quarter, in explanation of the President's latest move, that he was "not interested in Mr. Gardiner's opinion or abuse," but was "desirous that the correct facts with respect to the Navy be disseminated to the people."

What action the league itself will take in the matter probably will remain unsettled until Thursday when the executive committee of the organization meets to decide a course.

MEN'S BIBLE CLASS SUPPER ON FRIDAY

MILLS GARDNER MEMORIAL CLASS PLANS BIG AFFAIR

The annual supper and evening of good time, held by the members of the Mills Gardner Memorial bible class of Grace M. E. Church, has been announced for Friday night of this week.

Supper will be served at 6:30 by the ladies of the Dorcas Society in the church basement and a general invitation to the members of the class and the men of other churches has been extended by the committee in charge. Following the supper, Glenn McCoy president of the class will act as toastmaster, and a good time is promised with plenty of music and a few short speeches.

Clifford L. Jordan, sec'y of the American Insurance Union of Columbus, who is also superintendent of the Livingston M. E. Sunday School and a very able speaker is to make an interesting talk to the men of Washington C. H. Mr. Jordan is a personal friend of F. W. Turner, resident engineer of Fayette County, and comes in response to an invitation from the class, for this occasion. He is well known around the Capital City for his after dinner talks and will doubtless prove a drawing card for this yearly social meeting.

Members of the class have been asked to make reservations by Thursday noon. F. W. Turner, Wm. Burnett, C. E. Lloyd and Harold Craig have charge of the affair.

MRS. MOLLY I. SHARP DIES IN COLORADO

Mrs. Joseph E. Mark was notified by telegram, Tuesday, of the death of her sister, Mrs. Molly Irion Sharp, which occurred at the home in Denver, Colorado, Tuesday morning at the early hour of 4:00 o'clock. Mrs. Sharp was taken ill at 12:00 o'clock midnight and lived but four short hours. The announcement of her sudden death came as a severe shock to Mrs. Mark and to a host of relatives and friends throughout this vicinity, who extended heart-felt sympathies.

The telegram gave no details of her illness or any of the funeral plans.

HOUSE VISITED MONEY IS TAKEN

GEORGE LEONARD COOK LOSES $41 FROM TRUNK

George Leonard Cook, who rooms at the Glen Lininger residence in Delaware street, reported to the police, Monday afternoon, that while he was absent from his room someone had ransacked the place, scattered his belongings all over the room, and extracted $41 from his trunk, which had been broken open.

Cook told the police that usually the house is locked when no one is about the premises, and that Mrs. Lininger had left the front door unlocked so he could enter when he returned from work.

He said that he got to thinking that someone might enter the house and steal his money, so he returned about one hour after he had left the house, and discovered the money gone.

No other part of the house had been molested. Workmen on a house nearby stated that they had not noticed anyone about the premises while Cook was absent, so that considerable mystery surrounds the daylight robbery.

DONALD C. ELLWOOD AT TO ST. ANDREWS

Rev. F. C. Randolph of London, O., has resigned as minister-in-charge of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Washington C. H., and Rev. Donald C. Ellwood of Wilmington has been appointed to take charge of the local congregation.

Mr. Ellwood received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Kenyon College, Gambier, in 1924 and the degree of Bachelor in Divinity from the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Va., in 1928.

Upon graduating from the seminary he immediately became vicar of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Wilmington, where he has been ever since.

GRAIN PRICE ADVANCE MAKES FARMER RICHER

wheat for deferred deliveries, supported by public and Wall street buying orders but deserted by many professional traders, were bid up in the Chicago grain pits yesterday until they were 20 cents higher than they were less than a month ago.

Early in the session, all of the deferred deliveries gained, some of them going again to new high prices for the season. But the inclination to realize on the tremendous profits made in the last few days, coupled with less bullish news from abroad soon broke the market.

Before long May wheat had dropped 2½c from its high point of the day and the other contracts had lost almost as much. At noon December wheat was selling at 61½c, from 1¼ to 1½ cents less than yesterday's close, and March was 1½ to 1½ cents lower, selling at 65c.

The steady advance in the face of large amount of profit-taking and apparent selling by the farm board.

The manner in which the prices kept climbing brought from professional traders the frank admission of their surprise.

At the maximum prices for yesterday, deferred deliveries were changing hands at almost 3 cents higher than Saturday and at prices that were 40 per cent higher than the low point on October.

Russia's declaration through Berlin that it had not withdrawn from the wheat market came after the market closed. News that the Soviet would not be an exporter for two years furnished a striking bullish factor to the reawakened market yesterday.

EUROPEAN MARKET LOOMS.

Berlin, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Wet weather, which is causing millions of bushels of French and German wheat to sprout in the shocks, is eliminating some of the world surplus which depressed markets during the spring and summer.

In German market circles it was said that from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels would be unfit for milling because of the weather and would have to be used for fodder. The same sources said Russian export organizations are trying to secure cancellation of some of their future commitments in England and that Russian wheat exports dropped 2,000,000 bushels last week under the week preceding—a 50 per cent decline. An official at the Soviet embassy said the country's wheat supply is sufficient for home needs, with some for export.

Markets

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Many of the nation's markets are closed today because of the elections. Wall street was closed as were stock exchanges in St. Louis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit and Louisville, Kentucky.

Exchanges in Chicago, Baltimore, Kansas City and cities west of there remained open while commodity markets in some cities where stock exchanges closed, did business.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN

Chicago, Nov. 3.—(AP)—For the first time of late, a two-sided market developed in wheat today, and price swings went suddenly backward after surpassing top price records established only 24 hours before. Rallyes were numerous, but minus the sustained vigor that previously appeared to have almost no limit. The action of the market was in line with opinions generally expressed by trade experts that a reaction from the recent extraordinary advance was overdue.

Wheat closed ¾¢ to 1¼¢ cents under yesterday's finish, corn varying from ¾¢ decline to ¼¢ gain, oats ½¢ to ¾¢ down and provisions unchanged to a rise of 2 cents.

Outdoing once more the season's previous top quotations, wheat soon climbed to 20 cents above where the rise started on Oct. 5. For at least the time being, official denials that Russia would no longer be an exporter counted for little as against advice that the Liverpool market was excited because actually wheat offerings from Russia continued to be suspended, and also because North America and Argentina as well had made no new tenders of supplies. A further incentive to speculative buying was widespread notice of reports that a nationally known trader was actively promoting the upward swings of the market.

Extremely heavy selling of wheat, however, developed on new advances and a violent reaction ensued, to about a cent under yesterday's close, off more than 2 cents from today's early top. Accompanying the price setbacks were indications that little or no wheat export business from North America had been put through overnight. Besides, late quotations from Liverpool were also largely bullish. Corn and oats kept within relatively narrow limits but fluctuated with wheat.

Provisions rose and fell with grain.

Lois Corbin, a pretty working girl, falls in love with Bruce Durand, the nephew of Charles Durand, one of Chicago's wealthiest men. Ashamed to have Bruce know where she lives, Lois leaves her family and goes to share an apartment with Arlene and Margaret, two old friends. She finally becomes engaged to Bruce, but one night at his country club she is accused by a woman of having stolen the dress she is wearing from her home. Bruce is angry, and Lois is forced to explain that she purchased the dress at a second-hand store on Clark street. She is embarrassed beyond words. She keeps waiting all day to hear from Bruce, and when she gets home that night Arlene tells her that he has called to say he would be too busy to come down tonight. Lois and Margaret go to a movie, and return just in time to see Bruce drive away, with Arlene on the seat beside him. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.)

CHAPTER 19

WHEN BRUCE arrived at the Bellare he was under the impression that he was going to see Lois in a very few minutes. He didn't even call up from downstairs, so certain was he that his message had been delivered by Arlene to the effect that he would be there to call for Lois at eight o'clock.

He did not think anything was wrong when Arlene greeted him at the door, for he supposed that Lois was not yet ready. Arlene asked him to sit down on the davenport and she sat down beside him. The door to the dressing room was open and Bruce could see that there was no one there.

Arlene was dressed in her smartest outfit. A little fan fell out that she had managed to annex by going without lunches for a week and walking to and from work. Even then she was forced to pay for it on the installment plan and there were still two payments to make before it actually belonged to her. Her boy friends all liked it, so that more than compensated her for starving herself and for the worry of the payments hanging over her.

"Where is Lois?" Bruce finally asked when he had satisfied himself that she wasn't there.

"Now, don't get excited," Arlene warned him, in the sweetest voice that she was capable of assuming.

Bruce rose and went to the window. "I'm not excited," he said in a calm voice, "but I just wondered why she wasn't here. That's all."

Arlene asked, "Does it worry you?" Bruce laughed a little. He wasn't sure what Arlene was driving at.

"No, it doesn't worry me," he said, "except I naturally wondered why she wasn't around."

Arlene was like a sly cat as she sat there with her head down, playing with the tie on her waist, waiting for the opportunity to strike home.

"Can't Lois go out without your permission?" she quizzed him.

Bruce wheeled around quickly to face her. "Why, of course, she may," he said a little roughly, "but I made an engagement with her, didn't I? Naturally I expected her to be here."

Arlene spared for time. "She'll probably be here, don't get so ruffled about it."

Bruce said, "What do you mean, 'probably'?"

Arlene did not answer him. He asked her again. Then Arlene told him.

"I guess I'm just no good at trying to lie for somebody," she explained to him after it was all out.

"I promised Lois I wouldn't tell you that she went out with somebody else, but I don't see how I could get out of it."

Bruce said, "I'm glad you told me." He continued standing at the window looking down at the passing motor cars. He became quieter every instant. Anything but this. Making a date with some one and then not being there to keep it. Then he reminded himself that he actually hadn't made the date with her, though. But she knew that he would come for her. He always did. Every night except Wednesday.

"Where is Lois?" Bruce finally asked.

That was another thing. Wednesday she would never let him come to see her. That was the date she reserved for taking care of her clothes, so she had told him. Well, he'd find out about that, too, right now.

"I suppose Lois always sees this fellow on Wednesdays, too," he said querulously.

"Yes," Arlene said. She was glad of something that would make her story seem more logical. She hadn't thought about that. "Yes, Mack always came up on Wednesday night."

Bruce jumped at the mention of a man's name. He had always been jealous of Lois, without reason, he argued to himself. But jealous nevertheless. Well, he guessed he did have plenty of reason after all. Why shouldn't he? A good looking girl like Lois was would have men after her all the time. And all girls liked to keep two or three men on the string. They never were content with merely one. He might have known. He couldn't be faithful to him. But why had she accepted his ring. And after all they had been through together. Why it was incredible.

Well, he'd show her now. He'd let her know that she wasn't the only girl in the world either. If she could find other interests he also could, too. He looked over at Arlene. What about her? She was a pretty girl. Smart, too. He remembered vaguely of talking with her on various subjects that were interesting. Why not take her out? As long as Lois didn't care, he didn't either.

He walked over to Arlene. "See here," he said, "did you give Lois my message?"

Arlene nodded.

"What did she say?"

"She said to tell you that she was sorry but she just couldn't be here tonight."

Bruce said, "I see. This was the one night that I caught her. If I'd come around all those other Wednesday nights I'd probably found out a little sooner that she wasn't sitting home fixing up her clothes."

Arlene began to be a little frightened. She couldn't imagine Bruce Durand talking in the manner he was. He always had seemed courteous and formal previously. But then, all men were like that when they were aroused to anger.

Bruce suggested it. Arlene could always feel then, that it wasn't really her fault that Bruce walked out on Lois.

"How would you like to do a little dancing this evening, Arlene?"

Arlene opened her eyes wide.

"Oh, I couldn't think of doing that," she said, innocently. "I wouldn't want to go out with you when you are engaged to Lois."

Bruce laughed ironically. "I'm not engaged to anybody," he said.

Arlene started for the dressing room. She lingered there a moment with her hand on the doorknob. "I wouldn't want to do anything to hurt Lois' feelings," she said.

Bruce ignored her statement.

"Let's hurry and get out of here," he directed. "Where do you think she was going with this fellow?"

Arlene was titling her smart little felt hat down over one eye. She thought quickly. There was one place in town where she never had been and where she had always wanted to go. None of the boys she knew ever had enough money to take her. This would be her one chance to get in there, to hear the music that she always had read about, the famous dance orchestra.

She walked out with the air of a person who is stepping up to accept a prize he has just received.

"I think she went to the Edgemore hotel," Arlene said, as though she really shouldn't give away the secret.
